Course: Applied Microeconomics Brazil

Professor:

2016 SECOND SEMESTER

PROGRAM

The aim of this course is to explore applications of microeconomic analysis to development issues in Brazil. For this, will be discussed topics of literature of economic micro-development and its applications to Brazil. Particularly this semester the course focuses on aspects of institutions and social policies in Brazil. The topics will be motivated in the classroom from some theoretical model established in the literature and discussions of work applied to Brazil on the issue at hand.
